

CONTENTS

23 OCT. 1987
14-03001
1-00148

Section	Paper	Author	Page
I	Introduction and Notes	Marge Berer & Jill Rakusen	5
	Glossary		8
II	Medical Evidence
	1. Depo-Provera's Effects on Bleeding Patterns in Women	Jill Rakusen	9
	Appendix I-V: Women's experiences		24
	Appendix VI: Letter from a General Practitioner		38
	2. Certain Endocrine Effects of Depo-Provera: a discussion of the evidence and the implications	Jill Rakusen	39
	Appendix: Case histories		46
	3. Depo-Provera and Cancer		51
	a) Introduction	Jill Rakusen	52
	b) Cancer of the cervix	Jean Robinson	53
	Appendix: Prof Dr med G Dallenback-Hellweg's letter and report		58
	c) Commentary on Upjohn's Carcinogenicity Studies on the Monkey	(name withheld) Independent Toxicologist	61
	4. Depo-Provera and Arterial Disease	Jean Robinson	66
	5. Teratogenic Effects on Foetuses
	Exposed to DMPA	Jill Rakusen	68
Attachment: Letter from Dagfinn Aarskog		73
6. Effects on Lactation and the Breastfed Infant	Jean Robinson	76

Section Paper	Author	Page
7. 'Subjective' Effects	Jill Rakusen & Jean Robinson	82
Appendix: Women's Experiences		89
III Non-Medical Evidence		93
8. Depo-Provera: Non-Medical Considerations
a) Introduction	Marge Berer	94
b) How Depo-Provera is compared to other methods of birth control	Marge Berer	96
c) Information, choice, and informed consent	Marge Berer	101
Appendix 1-5		105
d) Who needs Depo-Provera?	Marge Berer	128
IV Reports from Health Workers in the Field
9. A General Practitioner's Experience of Women who have been given Depo-Provera	(name withheld)	135
10. My Experience of Depo-Provera use in West London, 1979-1981	Charmain Kenner	138
11. Depo-Provera in the Brent Health District: Observations	Brent Community Health Council	139
V Assessment of Epidemiological Research on Depo-Provera
12. a) Introduction	Jill Rakusen	143
b) Comments on the evidence about side-effects of Depot Medroxyprogesterone Acetate	Dr Valerie Beral Independent Epidemiologist	144
c) Appendix: The Depo-Provera Controversy	Dr Ian Pool Professor of Sociology	150
VI Conclusions and Recommendations	Marge Berer & Jill Rakusen	158