Contents

Preface	1
Executive summary and recommendations	3
Executive summary
Recommendations - The Canberra Communiqué	10
Personalities and photos	12
Opening session and welcome remarks	15
Dr Yuji Kawaguchi, Director, WHO Kobe Centre	17
Dr Wendy McCarthy, Chancellor, the University of Canberra	19
Plenary session 1: Philosophy and framework for maximizing women's capacities and leadership for health development
Inaugural address: WKC philosophy and framework	23
Keynote address: Global priorities, local sensibilities: maximizing women's capacities in health development	28
Background paper: From Awaji to Canberra: maximizing women's capacities and leadership for promoting better health and welfare systems for all	3,3 Plenary session 2: Persistent and emerging barriers to maximizing women's capacities and leadership	61
Generating evidence to promote empowerment of women in public health	63
Indigenous women and health: future challenges	74
Gender issues and reproductive rights in the Middle East and North Africa Region	78
Plenary session 3: Strategies for maximizing women's capacities and resources	89
Maximizing women's capacities and resources: approaches to women and health care in the Asia-Pacific region	91
Australian women's health: from margins to mainstream?	95
Empowering women through health education: models from the United States of America	107

Plenary session 4: Strategies for maximizing women's leadership and empowerment	115
Strategies for maximizing women's capacities in leadership and empowerment:
Samoa's experience	117
Women in health leadership: challenges in the mainstream	124
Strategies for maximizing leadership and empowerment of women in the
HIV/AIDS pandemic	130
Plenary session 5: Vision and plan of action for maximizing
women's capacities and leadership	135
Highlights of global vision and regional practice	137
Maximizing women's capacity and leadership in health: vision and propositions for action	147
Listening to women: action-oriented research in ergonomics	154
Working group sessions	165
Working group discussions in snapshots	167
Barriers to women's capacity for better health and welfare for all: a South African perspective	168
Thai women on the move: from hind legs of the elephant to equal partners	172
ANNEXES	181
ANNEX 1: Programme	183
ANNEX 2: List of Participants	188