

CONTENTS

	Page
Introduction	1
I. Building the smallest democracy at the heart of society	2
II. Domination and violence in families	4
III. Two forms of families: dominator and partnership	5
IV. Seeking the causes of violence: a review of theoretical models	6
V. Integrating clinical research and social policy	8
VI. Stages of human development	10
Co-dependent stage	10
Counter-dependent stage	11
Independent stage	12
Interdependent stage	12
VII. Moving from dominator to partnership families	14
VIII. Practical steps for creating partnership families	17
Establishing emotional, social and economic bonds between spouses	17
Providing a framework for procreation and sexual relationships between spouses	19
Exchanging goods and services	21
Protecting family members	22
Giving a name and status to family members, especially to children	23
Providing for the basic care of children, the elderly and disabled family members	24
Socializing and educating children	25
Providing emotional care, affection and recreation for family members ..	27
IX. Conclusion	29
X. Social policy recommendations to support the creation of partnership families	30
Recommendations	30