

---

Contents

	page
Introduction: State-Based Institutions for Gender Equity	1
PART I: A Feminist Perspective on Development, the State and Public Administration	3
. Gender, the state and development policy	3
. Gendered institutions	4
. Women's gendered interests	6
PART II: International and Domestic Political, Economic and Social Trends	8
. Economic changes	9
. Governance	11
. Religious fundamentalism	12
. Local and international feminisms	13
. Summary	13
PART III: Institutionalizing WID/GAD	14
. Introduction	14
. Antecedents: The role of domestic women's pressure groups	14
. The institutional inheritance	17
. Institutionalizing WID	18
Structural and sectoral location	19
Mechanisms for influencing other ministries	25
Promoting national ownership of the WID/GAD agenda	28
. Developing WID/GAD constituencies in and outside the state	34
Making space for women in the state	34
Cultivating a constituency	39
. Conceptualization of WID and GAD: Changes over time in approaches	44
. Conceptualizations of gender	49

---

PART IV: Conclusions: Constraints, Opportunities and Missed Opportunities	51
. Institutional and environmental constraints	51
. Political and policy opportunities	54
Endnotes	57
References	58