

REPORT PLAN

I - FROM EQUALITY BEFORE THE LAW TO ACTUAL EQUALITY ? PROGRESS AND ACHIEVEMENTS	p. 10
1.1. Perfecting the equality of rights	p. 11
• Eliminating the last legal discriminations	p. 11
• Sanctioning discriminatory behaviours	p. 12
• Improving the personal rights of women	p. 12
1.2. Action undertaken to get rights implemented and to encourage equality	p. 15
• In the educational framework	p. 16
• In the associative framework	p. 16
• The interventions of the Women's Rights Department	p. 17
• The philosophy of public interventions	p. 18
• Research and feminist studies	p. 21
1.3. Considerable evolution in actual fact	p. 21
• Access to the labour market	p. 22
• Access to education and training	p. 27
• Access to qualified posts and those involving responsibility	p. 30
• Health	p. 31

II - A CONTRASTING PICTURE : AMBIGUITIES AND PARADOXES	p. 37
2.1. Social evolutions affecting women in the first instance	p. 38
• The diversification of family models	p. 38
• The extension of poverty and exclusion	p. 40
• The integration of migrant communities	p. 42
• The place of women in development assistance policies	p. 44
2.2. Advances which are still fragile	p. 47
• In the employment sphere	p. 47
• In the educational and training sphere	p. 53
• In the health sphere	p. 56
2.3. A social and political organization which has still not drawn the consequences of these evolutions	p. 59
• The lack of adaptation of the social models and the collective choices	p. 59
• Women are paying a high price for their investment outside the traditional female area	p. 61
• The spheres of power remain the prerogative of men	p. 63
• The image and the representation of women have not evolved in the same way as their place in economic and social life	p. 69
• The persistence of acts of violence against women	p. 70

III - TOWARDS A SOCIETY WHERE THE MALE AND FEMALE COMPONENTS ARE INTEGRATED BETTER ?	p. 74
3.1. A prerequisite : both sexes are equally essential for the development and the controlled evolution of society	p. 75
• Acknowledging the male and female differences as a factor of wealth	p. 75
• Integrating the female approach as a beneficial factor for society as a whole	p. 76
• Adopting a collective policy for the necessary transformations	p. 77
3.2. A fact : the situation of crisis presents risks but also offers new opportunities	p. 77
• The employment crisis is leading to the questioning of the work models	p. 78
• The political crisis can be the opportunity to redefine the rules of the game	p. 78
• The quest for new social balances requires the enhancement of «female» approaches and activities	p. 79
3.3. An objective : the policies for the future are to concern both men and women	p. 79
• In favour of a new mode of development, integrating rather than excluding	p. 79
• In favour of another organization of time making it possible to reconcile the various aspects of life	p. 83

- In favour of a transformed practice of power and democracy p. 85
- In favour of integrated action to combat violence p. 86
- In favour of a greater awareness of the agents and a modification of behaviours p. 88

IV - ANNEX

Report elaboration method p. 90